Description

Comec is a leading company in the global automotive equipment manufacturers specializing in the production of machine tools and equipment primarily intended for the reconditioning of brake components, clutch and engine parts. The proven production process is made entirely within its plants through the use of numerical control machines that guarantee product standardization. The efficient organization is supported by a technical team of experienced and highly qualified staff. These elements allow high production capacity and ensure very high quality standards. The continuing evolution of the means of transport, technological development, but most of all suggestions and advice from users, lead us to constantly introduce new technical solutions on our products.
